

Women's HISTORY MONTH

, Black history shouldn't be limited to the names of men and only a few women, especially when there are countless women who've made enormous strides. Since the beginning of time, women have contributed to the development of the world. From abolitionist, to civil rights activist, we honor the architect, and astronaut. We honor women whose impact continue to shape history.

The achievements of women have paved the way for women and girls to dream big and act courageously.
